Explore our island heritage

On this website you will find thousands of records relating to the genealogy, history, traditions, culture and archaeology of the Western Isles (or Outer Hebrides), a chain of islands off the west coast of Scotland. The material is drawn mostly from the archives of local historical societies (Comainn Eachdraidh) and other member organisations, with valuable input from Hebrideans and their descendants around the world. At the moment, information is being contributed by organisations extending from the north of Lewis to Benbecula.
